

Wufoo Online Forms

From Wikipedia: Wufoo is a software company in Palo Alto, California. It was founded in 2006. Wufoo was acquired by SurveyMonkey, in 2011. The company has a number of partnerships with real time notification technology companies including Dropbox, MailChimp and Twitter.

The software Wufoo is an online form builder that creates forms including contact forms, online payments, online surveys and event registrations. It allows people without a coding background to build their own forms and surveys.

The service is web based by subscription although a basic package is free (see below). The range of packages is shown below. WCMPC, Glass Sellers and others use the AdHoc package at £99/year. 10 different Forms should be enough because they are re-used with amendments for subsequent events. Accordingly, you can design one form each for Dinners/Lunches, Banquets, Common Hall Pass/Lunch, Freedom Application, Member Survey (interests, Court aspiration), Social event bookings.

They offer payment collections connected to PayPal etc., we do not use that as we belong to a third party Direct Debit collector GoCardless.com based in the City. Collection plans can be setup for various quarterages, also one off or bulk payments can be collected for dinner charges, etc. The only fee is 1% of transaction amount, capped at £2. No other costs. PayPal may be just as cheap though.

There are tons of form templates to choose however designing a form is easy. You can add your logo and title to forms, all bookings/returns can be downloaded as a report in a spreadsheet format. If the form includes the customer's email address entry, then they can get a confirmation message. You have an easy-to-use 'dash board' to manage the forms and reports.

There are lots of features offered, these can be reviewed at this link:

You can always give the Freed account a try (3 forms) then upgrade later. Always happy to share any further information, Caroline Gillett of the Glass Sellers has more experience with this software.
